

Captixbio Press Release

Sydney, Australia, 21st of January 2020

Captix Biomedical Pty Ltd is delighted to welcome Mr Glenn Cross to its Board as a new Non-Executive Director. Glenn is well known in the Australian biomedical industry having an extensive background in life sciences and most recently holding the position of CEO of AusBiotech, an organisation he was with for more than 13 years.

With over 40 years of experience in life sciences, Glenn has held several senior executive positions with both multinational and Australian based medical technology companies. Over the past few years, he has been involved in both capital markets and general investment activities across the United States of America, Asia and Australia. In addition to several Board positions in the early stage biotechnology space, Glenn is currently the CEO of his own investment and advisory company: Red Bluff Capital.

Glenn is a welcome addition to the Captixbio team, and will no doubt be of great assistance to us as we pursue the goal of providing a cure for those suffering from Type 1 Diabetes.
